

Anne Stevens, Registered Nurse

Anne Stevens trained as a Registered Children's Nurse at Great Ormond Street, hospital for sick children in London and a Registered General Nurse at Watford, hospital Hertfordshire and has a wide range of experience. Following qualification Anne's career path allowed her to gain skills, knowledge and experience in the fields of health risk assessment, dietary analysis, vaccine research, public health community complex care and liability cases for nursing negligence.

Anne has worked as Operations Director screening workforces for health risk and training staff to help promote programmes of care. Anne successfully gained her Master's in Public Health and developed a health promotion service enabling people to adopt a healthier lifestyle and introduced tailored weight management programmes for adults and children.

Anne successfully set up and managed a children's palliative care team in Gloucestershire with lottery funding enabling children and families with complex conditions to have nursing care and support in their own home.

Anne has had senior management roles within the Community Care environment, managing teams of carers and nurses, setting up, implementing and delivering 24/7 complex care packages in the community for adults and children, some of whom were ventilator-dependent, her considerable complex care experience and expertise in this field has included carrying out comprehensive needs assessment, goal planning, care planning and risk assessments for a variety of clients in a cost effective way. Training and managing all levels of staff to work with complex care conditions in the home.

Anne currently runs an independent care management company providing care packages for children and young people with complex health needs. Anne works very closely with children and young adults to promote their quality of life and is dedicated and passionate to facilitate their independence. This involves a total care solution recruiting and training staff, managing all clinical care in the home and working with all agencies to promote the best quality care for the child and their family.

Anne is involved in writing liability reports for nursing practice determining whether there has been a breach in the duty of care or practice in line with Nursing standards.